

Frequently Asked Questions

LaTeX packages

You can use any LaTeX package for the preparation of your chapter. However, non-common packages should be submitted with the other source files.

arXiv policy

Authors can post their chapter on arXiv if they wish to do it. There is no embargo for the submitted version of the manuscript, while there is an embargo of 12 months from publication for the accepted version. In the case of a chapter of a book, authors can post on arXiv - at any time - the submitted version, which often corresponds to, or it is very close to, the accepted version because editors are supposed to invite experts on the topic of every chapter. In the comment field on arXiv, please write something like ``Invited chapter for the edited book [Title of the book] (Eds. [Names of the Editors], Springer Singapore, expected in [expected year of publication])". After the publication of the chapter, you may add the DOI on the arXiv page.

Submission

When you submit your chapter, please remember to include the compiled pdf file of your chapter, all source files (including possible non-common LaTeX packages and the LaTeX style file), and possible copyrights permissions related to the reuse of figures/tables.

Copyrights permissions

If you reuse figures/tables from previous publications, in general you need to get the permission from the copyright holder. In some journals (e.g. AAS and APS journals), it is not necessary to get the permission from the copyright holder if you or another author of your chapter is in the author list of the article of the original figure. In any case, you must always write the original source of the figure/table in the figure/table caption.

Gold Open Access articles: if you want to reuse a figure/table published in a gold OA article, you need to check how the article is published. If it is published under some common contribution license, you can directly reuse the figure/table, but still you have to write the original source in the caption.

Unfortunately, the procedure to get the permission from the copyrights holder depends on the journal. In general you can find the instructions on the journal webpage under "Copyrights and Permissions" or something similar. Below we provide the guidelines for a few popular journals.

AJ, ApJ, ApJL, ApJS

Note: if you or another author of your chapter is in the author list of the article of the original figure, you do not need any permission from the copyrights holder

Step 1: Obtain consent from one of the original authors of the article from which you wish to extract materials. In the event that the original authors are deceased or unavailable, go to Step 2.

This is an example of email:

To: xxxx
Subject: Requests for permission to reprint figures/tables

--- beginning of the email ---

Dear Prof. Xxxxx,

I would like to kindly ask you (as one of the authors of the paper listed below) for the permission to reuse the following figure:

Fig. x in xxx et al., ApJ xx (xxxx) xxx

In the chapter:

[tentative chapter title], [author list]

of the edited book entitled [Title of the book],

Eds. [Names of the Editors] (Springer Singapore, expected in [expected year of publication of the book]).

Thank you in advance.

Best regards,
xxx

ps: an informal reply to this email is enough. I will then contact the journal with your reply as confirmation that I have the permission from one of the authors of the paper.

--- end of the email ---

Step 2: Notify permissions@iopublishing.org when consent has been obtained from the original authors (or when you are not able to reach the original authors). Give the original citation for the figure, table, or other material that you plan to reproduce as well as the information about where the material is to appear.

Example of email:

To: permissions@iopublishing.org
Subject: Requests for permission to reprint figures/tables

--- beginning of the email ---

Dear Copyright and Permissions Team,

I am writing to ask for the permission to reuse (with proper attribution) the following figures/tables published in AJ/ApJ/ApJL/ApJS articles:

- 1) Fig. x in xxx et al., ApJ xx (xxxx) xxx
- 2) Fig. x in xxx et al., ApJ xx (xxxx) xxx
- 3) Fig. x in xxx et al., ApJ xx (xxxx) xxx
- ...
- N) Fig. x in xxx et al., ApJ xx (xxxx) xxx

In the chapter:

[tentative chapter title], [author list]

of the edited book entitled [Title of the book],

Eds. [Names of the Editors] (Springer Singapore, expected in [expected year of publication of the book]).

Please find enclosed the emails confirming that, for every figure/table, I received the permission from at least one of the authors.

Thank you in advance.

Best regards,

xxx

Annual Review of Astronomy and Astrophysics

You can submit the request online. Go to the webpage of the article of the figures and follow the link "Permission" under the author list. You will have to fill out some online forms provided by Copyright Clearance Service.

Note: To reuse figures published on ARAA articles, it is necessary to pay a copyrights fee and you will have to use your grants. If you do not want to use your grant for the copyrights fee, you should find another figure for your chapter.

Astronomy & Astrophysics, Astronomy & Astrophysics Supplement Series

You can send an email with your requests to aanda.paris@obspm.fr . This is an example:

MNRAS

No permission is required if you reuse up to two figures of the same article. If you want to reuse three or more figures of the same article, you have to email journals.permissions@oup.com . You can use the same template email as that for A&A.

PRD, PRL, RMP

You can submit the request online. Go to the webpage of the article of the figures and follow the link “Reuse & Permission” in the column on the right. You will have to fill out some online forms provided by SciPris.
